

There are now many options to make Scrip more convenient and timely but this also adds a bit of confusion. For example, people have been inadvertently ordering the wrong type or style of scrip. With the added advantages of various options of Scrip, we wanted to clarify some things because it does get a little confusing.....

On Hand - Items that we carry in stock and are able to fill and send home the same day

Specials - Any other item on the shopwithscrip website that is not on the On Hand list. Items require a one week turnaround.

PrestoPay – Ability, once you set it up, to pay for your purchases automatically through your checking account for a fee of .15 per transaction. You can choose whether to use PrestoPay or pay by check for each order. Good thing to set up should you need something quickly. Most beneficial when used with ScripNow or Reload options.

ScripNow - List of 31 (and growing) retailers who offer an option to place an order of an amount of your choosing, pay with PrestoPay or by check, receive an email link to print out a paper certificate immediately after your order is processed. You may also use ScripNow to send an electronic gift.

Reload - List of 49 (and growing) retailers that allow you to reload a card you have already bought from us with an amount of your choosing. Money is usually added within 24 hours after your order is processed. Can use PrestoPay or pay by check to pay for your reload.

When ordering a card, say CVS, if you look to the right side of the screen you will see all the different options listed. You must click on which one you prefer, ScripNow, Reload, $25 card, $100 card. ScripNow is the default for the retailers that offer it so be careful if you want an actual card. Please check the screen carefully before adding to cart, it will tell you that it is not an actual card. Good rule of thumb is that if it asks you to pick a dollar amount it is ScripNow or Reload, not an actual card.
